a. Why is smoking injurious to the young and healthy people?
b. What change in the west has been noticed during last decade?
c. What is the change that has taken place in India during the last decade?
d. Where does the hope lie for the regular smokers?
e. Give a suitable title to the passage.
